(b) Most of these demands are disputed in appeals and the appeals are pending before various appellate authorities and courts. Some of the demands are also stayed by courts and appellate authorities. The recovery of tax, however, is a continuous process, involving the use of various statutory provisions. These include charging of interest, levy of penalty, attachment of bank accounts, attachment and sale of movable and immovable properties, etc. Periodical review and monitoring of cases involving high demands are made by higher authorities on a continuous basis and necessary instructions are issued from time to time for effecting the recovery of taxes.
